American-Born Princess Quits Italian Spouse

Princess Pignatelli d'Aragon

By Central Press
 PARIS.—Another American heiress is seeking freedom from a titled foreigner.

Princess Ludovic Pignatelli d'Aragon, scion of an illustrious family of Roman nobles and one of the finest swordsmen in Europe, has lost his romantic hold upon his wife, the Princess Pignatelli, formerly Miss Ruth M. Waters of Little Silver, N. J.

Following a sensational scene at the Biarritz Casino, the princess announced she was starting proceedings for divorce.

The prince and princess were sitting together in the restaurant attached to the gambling rooms when Andrew Reid of Baltimore entered. The prince rose to his feet and brandished his fist in Reid's face.

Reid merely shrugged his shoulders, witnesses say, bowed to the princess, and sat down at a table a short distance away.

The princess then crossed over and sat down with Reid.

The princess shouted: "How about those jewels I gave you?"

The princess tore the gems from her fingers and neck and flung them in her husband's face.

Princess Pignatelli then rushed from the room. Later he sent his seconds to Reid with a challenge to a duel.

Reid is well known in American society. When the war started he enlisted in the aviation corps of the French army, and later transferred to the American air service. Since the war he has lived in France. He is in his early thirties.

Who Is Oldest Man in World? Ask Scientists

Many Claimants Seek Honor; Chinaman Says He's Seen 164 Years

By MARY PICKARD

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Who is the oldest person in the world? Scientists would like to know, but can't find out.

There are claimants to the title in every section of the world, but in most cases the actual ages of these persons, in years of 365 days each, cannot be definitely established. Perhaps the oldest of all the living humans on earth is not in touch with civilization and cannot be reached.

In China there is a man who says he is 164 years old. Yuan Kwo-chang is the name of this claimant; and if the story of the Manchuria Daily News is correct he has so well established his claim as to have become the recipient of a government annuity of 200 yen.

Zareen Agha, who still works as a porter in Constantinople, avers he is 150. He is undoubtedly of great age, but it has not been established that he was born in 1774, the year before the Declaration of Independence.

In the Philippines there is a woman with an unpronounceable name whom crude tribal records show to be 125 years old.

Joseph Maga of Yagoubitzka, Jugoslavia, having married three times and become a father at 103, died this year at 120. Maga's death occurred about the time of that of James G. Sutton, oldest inmate of the Kanawha County Farm, West Virginia, at the age of 117.

"Uncle Johnny" Shell of Kentucky claimed to be 130 just before he died recently, but it appears now he was only 115.

Sarah Thompson, born in 1810, entered the Washington County (Pa.) Home at the age of 62 and lived to be 114.

Chief Nowneconuck, born in 1811, and Chief Skinwah, his junior by three years, were sent to Washington not long ago to present the claims of the Pottawatomies to $35,000,000 worth of land.

On arriving at the Soldiers' Home, Atlanta, Ga., Dow Grace, who was too old to fight in the Civil War, carried all his worldly goods in a brace of pillow-cases. He was born not later than 1814.

Roumania is proud of the postman, still in active service, who was born in 1816 and is consequently 108.

In New York there is a Roumanian born in the same year with the postman, and perhaps even in an earlier month—May 27, 1816. This is Chaim Vels, who is cared for by the Sons and Daughters of Israel. Chaim aims at 115.

In emulation of a deceased uncle, his father died prematurely—98. Then there is Mrs. B. A. Howe of Ware, Mass., who will be 106 in December. She attributes her long living to hard work.

Mrs. James Randolph of Woodbridge, N. J., born in 1820, feels like a flapper, and so do Mrs. Laney Traut of Hastings, Minn., who walked downtown on Aer 103d birthday the other day, and Mrs. Frances Mary Wright of Patchogue, L. I., three months older. "Dad" Quick of Vancouver, B. C., celebrated a corresponding anniversary by putting in thirteen hours of work instead of his customary eleven.

James Monroe, who says he is the son of President Monroe, seems to have found in Florida what Ponce de Leon looked for. He is the champion swimmer of his age—which is 109.

Mrs. Ida Thurston of Cahuenga avenue spent Saturday in Long Beach.

Fred Leifstrom of San Pedro spent Sunday with Edward Kasal of Redondo boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Stalcup of Elgin street entertained Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Privett of Los Angeles and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Thompson of San Pedro Sunday.

New Radio-Photo Device Sends Printed Matter Through Air

C. Francis Jenkins, Washington, D. C., inventor, announces that he has perfected a radio-photo news transmitter which sends printed matter through the air at the rate of 100 words a minute. He is shown with the invention.

HARBOR CITY NEWS NOTES

Honoring her daughter Bertie's seventh anniversary, Mrs. H. F. Balding of 252d street entertained a number of children Saturday afternoon. The affair and decorations were in keeping with the Halloween spirit. A jolly afternoon was passed with children's games of all descriptions. Refreshments were served. Pictures were taken of all the little folks. The guests were Phyllis Myerscough, Avis Charlton, Elizabeth and Orphe Evans, Pearl Carpenter, Bernice and Bernard Rozell, Kenneth Hughes, Margie, Dorothy and Theodore Aarup of San Pedro, and Rowena Balding.

Under a new management recently effected, the Harbor City garage became a representative of the Automobile Club of Southern California. A touring and road service is included in the plan. Jack Pettit at the Harbor City garage will give anyone desiring additional particulars the necessary information.

Mrs. D. W. Rainey visited with her husband at the Good Samaritan hospital, Los Angeles, Sunday. Mr. Rainey was injured in a San Pedro lumber yard three weeks ago.

Mrs. George E. Bennett of Belleporte avenue provided much enjoyment for her sewing class of young children on Friday afternoon. Sewing was put aside and all enjoyed themselves with various games. The rooms were decorated with orange and black, carried out in the Halloween spirit. Each girl received a doll dress.

Miss Hymer, teacher of the foreign opportunity room at the Harbor City school, entertained her class at a Halloween party.

Dinner guests Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. J. A. Boecker, Weston street, were Mrs. Blanche Bautzer and Miss Lillian Stephens of Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Putnam and sons Ned and Budd, of 260th street, report a most enjoyable visit with friends in Long Beach Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Cline of 25th street were visiting with friends in Long Beach Sunday.

ORGANIZATION TO ERECT MOTHERS' MEMORIAL ARCH

Miss Ada Moore of Los Angeles was a weekend guest of Miss Mercedes Groover of South Cypress street.

Excellent Cast Of Noted Stars In 'Butterfly'

Torrance Theatre Brings Feature Photoplays to Movie Patrons

WHAT'S ON AT TORRANCE THEATRE

Tuesday and Wednesday—"Butterfly," with Laura La Plante and Norman Kerry. Secrets of Life, "The Fly." Jack White Comedy.

Thursday—Special Event, Pay Day. James Cruze's production, "The City That Never Sleeps." Christie Comedy. Fox News.

In keeping with its policy of showing better photoplays, the Torrance theatre is showing today and tomorrow, "Butterfly," made from Kathleen Norris' novel, with Laura La Plante, Norman Kerry, Kenneth Harlan, Ruth Clifford, T. Roy Barnes, and others. "Butterfly" has met with unusual success, having played for five weeks at the Forum theatre, Los Angeles, at reserved seat prices.

"Butterfly" is Kathleen Norris' remarkable expose of the causes of divorce, one of the sensational novels of the year, in which the causes of domestic separation are told. The picture was produced on a lavish scale.

Thursday, in addition to the "Pay Day" event, the Torrance theatre is showing James Cruze's production, "The City That Never Sleeps," which, of course, is New York. It is not the usual New York story of the "gay white way" variety, for the action is laid in the Bowerly, the good old picturesque, colorful Bowerly. It is the Bowerly of 1910, before the Great Drought, when Tony Pastor's was the palace of entertainment in the metropolis.

The cast is excellent, including such well known names as Ricardo Cortez, Virginia Lee Corbin, Louise Dresser, Kathryn Williams, and Pierre Grandmont.

In connection with its "Pay Day" event every Thursday, the management of the Torrance theatre announces that a change in method of distributing the pay envelopes will be put into effect at once. The aim is to eliminate confusion and discomfort of the patrons, and with this end in view, a new arrangement has been worked out whereby the envelopes will be distributed at the door. Those who cannot come for the first show will receive their pay envelopes under the new plan, just as do the ones who come earlier.

Stickney, Susie Newton, Rachel Hallar, Juanita Sutton, Dorothy West, Ruth Shaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Poggi of East Narbonne street were weekend visitors in San Diego.

Charles H. Clark and Jack Pettit were weekend hunters at Elsinore.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Thompson Jr. of Los Angeles were guests Saturday of Mrs. Thompson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Clark, of Weston street.

Mrs. Alice Putnam entertained her Sunday school class with a Halloween party at her home on 260th street Saturday evening. The rooms were decorated with Halloween colors. The evening was spent with games and music, and refreshments of pumpkin pie, chocolate and candy were served. The following were present: Ada Wills, Dorothy Fritz, Orbay Gould, Florina Higgins, Corrine Light, Eva Cook, Willie Fisher, Helen Fenton, Edith Wilkins, Edna Hakkinen, Ruby Carpenter, Margaret Greig, Irene Alto, Dorothy Cross, Lydia
